ABOUT

It has given David enormous pleasure to see Wealth Design grow from modest beginnings in 2014. In financial services it is important to believe intrinsically in what you do, as it's an abstract business without manufacture of an actual product.

It's important to keep the result in mind: a job well done and a satisfactory outcome for happy clients. Wealth Design's ethic of caring is more than a cliché, as the aim is to make a genuine difference in people's lives, by means of an active focus on their circumstances.

David was regional chairman for the Personal Finance Society for Staffordshire and Shropshire for 14 years, which involved chairing quarterly meetings and attending national conference. In a constantly-changing sector, this helps ensure enduring professionalism. He is still actively involved in the society.

CAREER HISTORY

David has worked in financial services since 1987, including many years with major names in the sector, with a particular specialism in advice about pensions. With that wealth of national company experience behind him, his mission now is to utilise it in a smaller more personal environment.
